In response to the changing economy and varying social distancing requirements, grantees and apprenticeship programs are exploring new ways to deliver services. This session explores virtual approaches to support apprentices, sponsors, employers, and related technical instruction (RTI) providers.

After sharing examples of virtual outreach and RTI used in Alaska and Montana for several years, speakers share virtual approaches for a range of apprenticeship activities, including:

- Facilitating apprenticeship expansion
- Supporting businesses and apprentices
- Holding virtual career fairs and other recruiting events
- Virtual RTI strategies
